CONFERENCE DETAILS:

In this case conference we want to have a special focus on follow ups.

Finding the right remedy is one subject, but how do we handle the reactions that evolve over the time? How do we understand them correctly and what are our options to react upon them?

Based on his systematic approach and with the insight he gained in over 40 years of managing mostly difficult cases Paul Herscu will share his knowledge about these important questions on this weekend with us.

The setting as a small group offers us the possibility to work very intensely. We will see most of last year’s patients back, but also some new ones (all live). There is space to ask questions and to talk about the cycles of the remedies coming up and their DDs.

If you want to present a case at the conference, please make sure that the patient speaks English well enough (or please translate consecutively for her/him yourself. Perhaps we’ll have the wonderful possibility to have Uta Schildwächter with us as a translator again) and contact Andrea Weninger herscu-seminar@homoeopathie-in-freiburg.de.

A special note from Paul Herscu ND, MPH:

I have been studying and practicing classical homeopathy for over 40 years. I began to teach homeopathy a few years later. Amy and I began the New England School of Homeopathy (NESH) 30 years ago, half my life, with certain goals in mind, primarily to articulate a clinically effective methodology to classical homeopathy. Our practice philosophy and methodology is deeply consistent, rooted in patient experience and science, and continues to evolve. I would like to further share from this evolution with more in-depth /clinically useful details during this conference. I hope each participant leaves with increased refined skill sets to bring to the clinic Monday morning. Please consider joining us!
